

Synecdoche
Reading the new Anand Parbat

As I draw the interior of the housing block, I understand how they are heavily mediated by courtyards and enveloped with a rather mute facade. In this way, the courtyard becomes the nucleus of domestic spaces and its possible extension whereas the commercial activities punctuate the facade with a dash of activity.

